This will mean ground. wealth for our farmers, employment for the people, an increase of population, a general stimulation of activities.

the people, an increase of population, a general stimulation of activities.

In view of what has happened in the development of other oil fields the Intelligences feels like reminding its friends that those who do not understand the oil business will be on the safe side if they keep out of it. They may lose if they keep out of it. They may lose opportunities to make money, but they will not lose any money by resisting the temptation to go in.

Perhaps not one man in a hundred who is tempted will pay any attention to good advice, but that will not detract from the soundness of the advice.

The Cost of Bad Streets.

In the latest Harper's Weekly Capt. Francis V. Greene has a valuable article Francis V. Greene has a valuable article on "Roads and Road Making." The writer uses this apt illustration to show the enormous difference between the cost of street transportation and railway transportation, and incidentally the cost to a community forced to do its hauling large. More are considered in the cost of the cost of the cost of the cost of street transportation and railway transportation, and incidentally the cost to a community forced to do its hauling large. More are considered in the cost of to a community forced to do its hauling last, over bad streets:

In the city of New York it is estimated that there are 12,000 trucks, carrying an average load of 1½ tons for 12 miles on each of 300 days in the year, at an average daily cost of $4 for each truck. The result is about 65,000,000 tons transported one mile in every year, at a total cost of $14,400,000, or at the rate of over 22 cents per ton mile. The excessive nature of this charge is seen when it is remembered that the same goods are now carried by rail at six-tenths of 1 cent per mile. On asphalt or wood pavements the same horses could transport a load three times as heavy as on the present rough stone pavements. If the saving in transportation is proportional to the load carried it would amount to nearly $10,000,000 per annum. It is eafe to say that at least one-half of this amount would be saved by substituting smooth pavements for those now in use in New York.

It is easy to appreciate the difference

It is easy to appreciate the difference when it is thus presented. The same thing is seen in practice in Wheeling when we contrast our smooth brick-paved streets with our rough cobblestone-paved streets, and again when we contrast our brick-paved streets, and again when we contrast our brick-paved streets which by reason of bad workmanship are no longer smooth with those which retain

In these days you have to be on your gard, or the first doctor you meet will shoot some of the elixir of life into your anatomy. They are getting the craze, although most of them are making sport of it.

Allen, who used his opportunity as head of a New York street railway company to forge a big pile of bonds, blames it all on his wife's extravagances. This is a poor explanation of a villainy. Where was Mr. Allen while Mrs. Allen's extravagances were driving him to the penitentiary?

Cincinnati saloon-keepers shut up on Sundays because Cincinnati's authorities are for the present in carnest. If the said authorities change their minds the saloon-keepers will find it out, and then the business will be resumed at the old stands as hereofore.

One reason given for the probable refusal of the Government to interfere in any way with Mrs. Maybrick's sentence is, that interference would be regarded as a reboke to Judge Stephen, who tried the case. Are a judge's feelings of more importance than a human life?

All Europe is wondering when all Europe is going to fight. No wonder that those who have nothing to gain by victory and suffer most by defeat are glad to get away from the threatened trouble to a land which has no such complications and apprehensions.

JEFF. Davis is not satisfied with the small returns from his book, "Rise and Fall of the Confederate Government," and arbitrators have been appointed at the suggestion of his publishers, the Appletons. The truth about the book is that it is not entertaining, and there has been less demand for it than Mr. Davis expected. A name will start a book but will not carry it through.

What cannot a woman do? The passengers on a West End street car were a woman's skill last night, when a fine-looking, robust woman passed rapidly through the car and engaged the driver in conversation for a moment. Eccentric Errors.

Geologists and practical oil men have long believed that the petroleum belt which first showed itself in Northern Pennsylvania runs in a southwesterly course through West Virginia. This theory is supported by the oil production in the Parkersburg and Macksburg fields.

The Georgia Duel.

In a purely business matter one Georgia gentleman gives offense to another Georgia gentleman. A challenge is sent and accepted, there is a meeting with all the gilt-edged flummery of the code duello, and the cannonading begins. Each gentleman is entitled to five shots. The word is given. One Georgia gentleman fires one shot, the other is Georgia gentleman is entitled to five shots. The word is given. One Georgia gentleman pieng more thirsty for gore, baugs away with his five shots. Vindication of Dis Honor.

London Til Bits.1 A couple of good natured Frenchmen got into a quarrel and challenged each other to fight. On the morning of the duel they and their seconds tramped through the woods to the fatal spot, when one of the duelists, the challenging party tripped and fell. His second helped him to his feet.

"I hope you are not hurt?" said the other duelist.

"I'm not much hurt; I only bumped my nose on the ground."
